About “Military-readiness”

What is a “Military-ready” employer?

- An organization which sees the business case for hiring military talent
- Has clear and enthusiastic executive support for the initiative
- Offers training and educational support to recruiters and hiring managers on the nuances of hiring military talent
- Provides structural support such as custom onboarding procedures and Veteran Resource Group (VRG) formation

Why does it matter?

- Because the goal is to find a job that fits you with an organization that is going to get you
- Because it’s essential to combating Veteran underemployment and Military Spouse unemployment
